On the notion of B-regularity and related problems

Żywomir Dinew

The notion of B-regularity of domains and compact sets was introduced by Sibony in 1987 and, in a sense, is the analogue of what the regularity is in classical potential theory. We present a study of what B-regularity means geometrically, and discuss some related problems, mainly concerning the possibility of local plurisubharmonic extension of continuous functions.